NINETY-NINTH ANNUAL REPORT OF GALLAUDET COLLEGE

GENERAL STATEMENT

Gallaudet College, under the name of the Columbia Institution for the Deaf, was incorporated under act of Congress on February 16, 1857. Since that time, Congress has provided appropriations for its support on an annual basis, including funds for improvement of grounds and repairs and upkeep of buildings as well as for salaries and other expenses. It has also from time to time appropriated funds for the erection of new buildings. The college now comprises 26 buildings situated on a beautiful campus just 15 blocks from the Capitol of the United States. In addition, construction has been started on two new buildings; a women's residence hall and a physical activities--heating plant building. The 1957 budget estimate includes plans for a classroom-science building and a speech and hearing center. Under the building plan approved by Congress for Gallaudet College, future budget estimates will include requests for a cafeteria and service building, a men's residence hall, an auditorium, classrooms and dormitories for Kendall School, greenhouses, an athletic field and stands and maintenance group buildings.

The work of Gallaudet College is devoted to the education of deaf students whose hearing is so impaired that they are unable to progress satisfactorily in schools and colleges for hearing students. The college is composed of four departments, as follows: Kendall School, Gallaudet College, the Graduate Department of Education, and the Research Department. The aim of the college is to promote the welfare and advancement of deaf persons through various educational means and through research work.

The Kendall School is for the younger deaf children of the District of Columbia. The work of the Kendall School extends through all grades up to the college preparatory level. The oral method of instruction is used in this department. However, there are children who cannot progress orally. We, therefore, are prepared to use any and all methods which will bring results. The hard of hearing children of the District are educated in day classes in the public schools of the city. Occasionally some of these pupils are sent to us by the District authorities and have some residual hearing. We have multiple hearing aids for these pupils to use.

Gallaudet College is the only institution of higher learning in the world devoted exclusively to the education of the deaf.

The curriculum of the college is similar to that of any small American college of liberal arts and sciences. After completing requirements in general education during his first two years, the student concentrates for his last two years in a field of study that bears the greatest promise for his career after graduation. Fields of concentration are offered in art, biology, business administration, chemistry, economics, education, English, history, home economics, library science mathematics, philosophy, physical education, physics, political science, psychology, and sociology. Additional courses are offered in classics, German, romance languages, speech, and printing.

In addition to undergraduate courses, the college offers a one-year preparatory course for deaf students who are not able to obtain a full secondary education in their own state school before entering college.

Gallaudet College also provides graduate training in the education of the deaf to prospective teachers with normal hearing and operates a laboratory school (the Kendall School) to serve its teacher-training program.

The principal manner of communication in the classroom is the "simultaneous method" -- a combination of manual language with speech, speechreading, and the use of hearing aids. All students receive training in speech and in the use of any residual hearing throughout their residence.

The college supports many extra-curricular activities, including dances, literary, religious, and social organizations, and intramural and intercollegiate athletics.

In meeting one of its principal responsibilities in the education of the deaf, the college is engaged in research into a number of the aspects of deafness: sociological, linguistic, and psycho-acoustic.

SUMMARY OF ENROLLMENT

During the fiscal year July 1, 1955, through June 30, 1956, there were 177 men and 117 women enrolled in the college proper, a total of 294, representing 43 states, the District of Columbia, Canada, Ceylon, England, India, Italy, Norway and Sweden. This is an increase of 30 over the preceding year.

In the Kendall School there were 43 boys and 32 girls enrolled, a total of 75, of which 63 were from the District of Columbia. This is a decrease of 12 from the preceding year.

There were admitted to the Preparatory Department 46 men and 40 women; 32 men and 19 women were graduated.

HEALTH

The Director of the Health Department is a registered nurse, residing on the campus. Her assistant is also a registered nurse in residence. Dr. Richard H. Todd is the physician in charge and is on call. Complete medical care is available twenty-four hours a day. Infirmary care is arranged according to the need of the student. In the event of acute or prolonged illness the students are transferred to one of the Washington hospitals.

An appraisal is made of the student immediately after admission. Potential ability rather than potential handicap is an admitted criterion. The physically handicapped and the multiple-handicapped student has an even greater need than others for the benefits of a sound health program. A physical examination by the college physician takes place during Orientation Week.

Tuberculosis x-rays are given and the following tests are administered: Dick for Scarlet Fever, Schick for Diphtheria, and Wassermann or Kahn as well as Tuberculin. All must show recent immunization or be immunized against Smallpox, Diphtheria, Typhoid and Para Typhoid and Tetanus. The use of the Salk vaccine for the little children in Kendall School was begun in April, 1955, with the permission of the parents, and extended to the older pupils in the Spring of 1956.

The students participate in a compulsory accident-illness group insurance plan which is arranged by the college.
